

Diversity in my news sources insures me as a citizen that the interests of a singular group is not diluting my information. The FCC lift on this regulation is a solely pro-business stance for people who are already rich to become even richer. Now that I know that my news is going to be convoluted by the interest of a singular sect of society I no longer fill comfortable in subscribing to corporate media.